Donald Scoggins

Donald,

I don't know where to begin! I don't know that you are the cutest and sweetest boy I know. I can't tell you how much you mean to me - the whole world - you have always been such a wonderful guy - I can't write (it would have to be a book) on how sweet you are!

You have always been a nice and always friend guy - your personality is one in a million - you are still the same adorable guy you have always been

I hope your future will be very successful and certainly a happy one! "Whoever" the lucky gal is when the "day" comes - you know I have to approve of her!! Right!

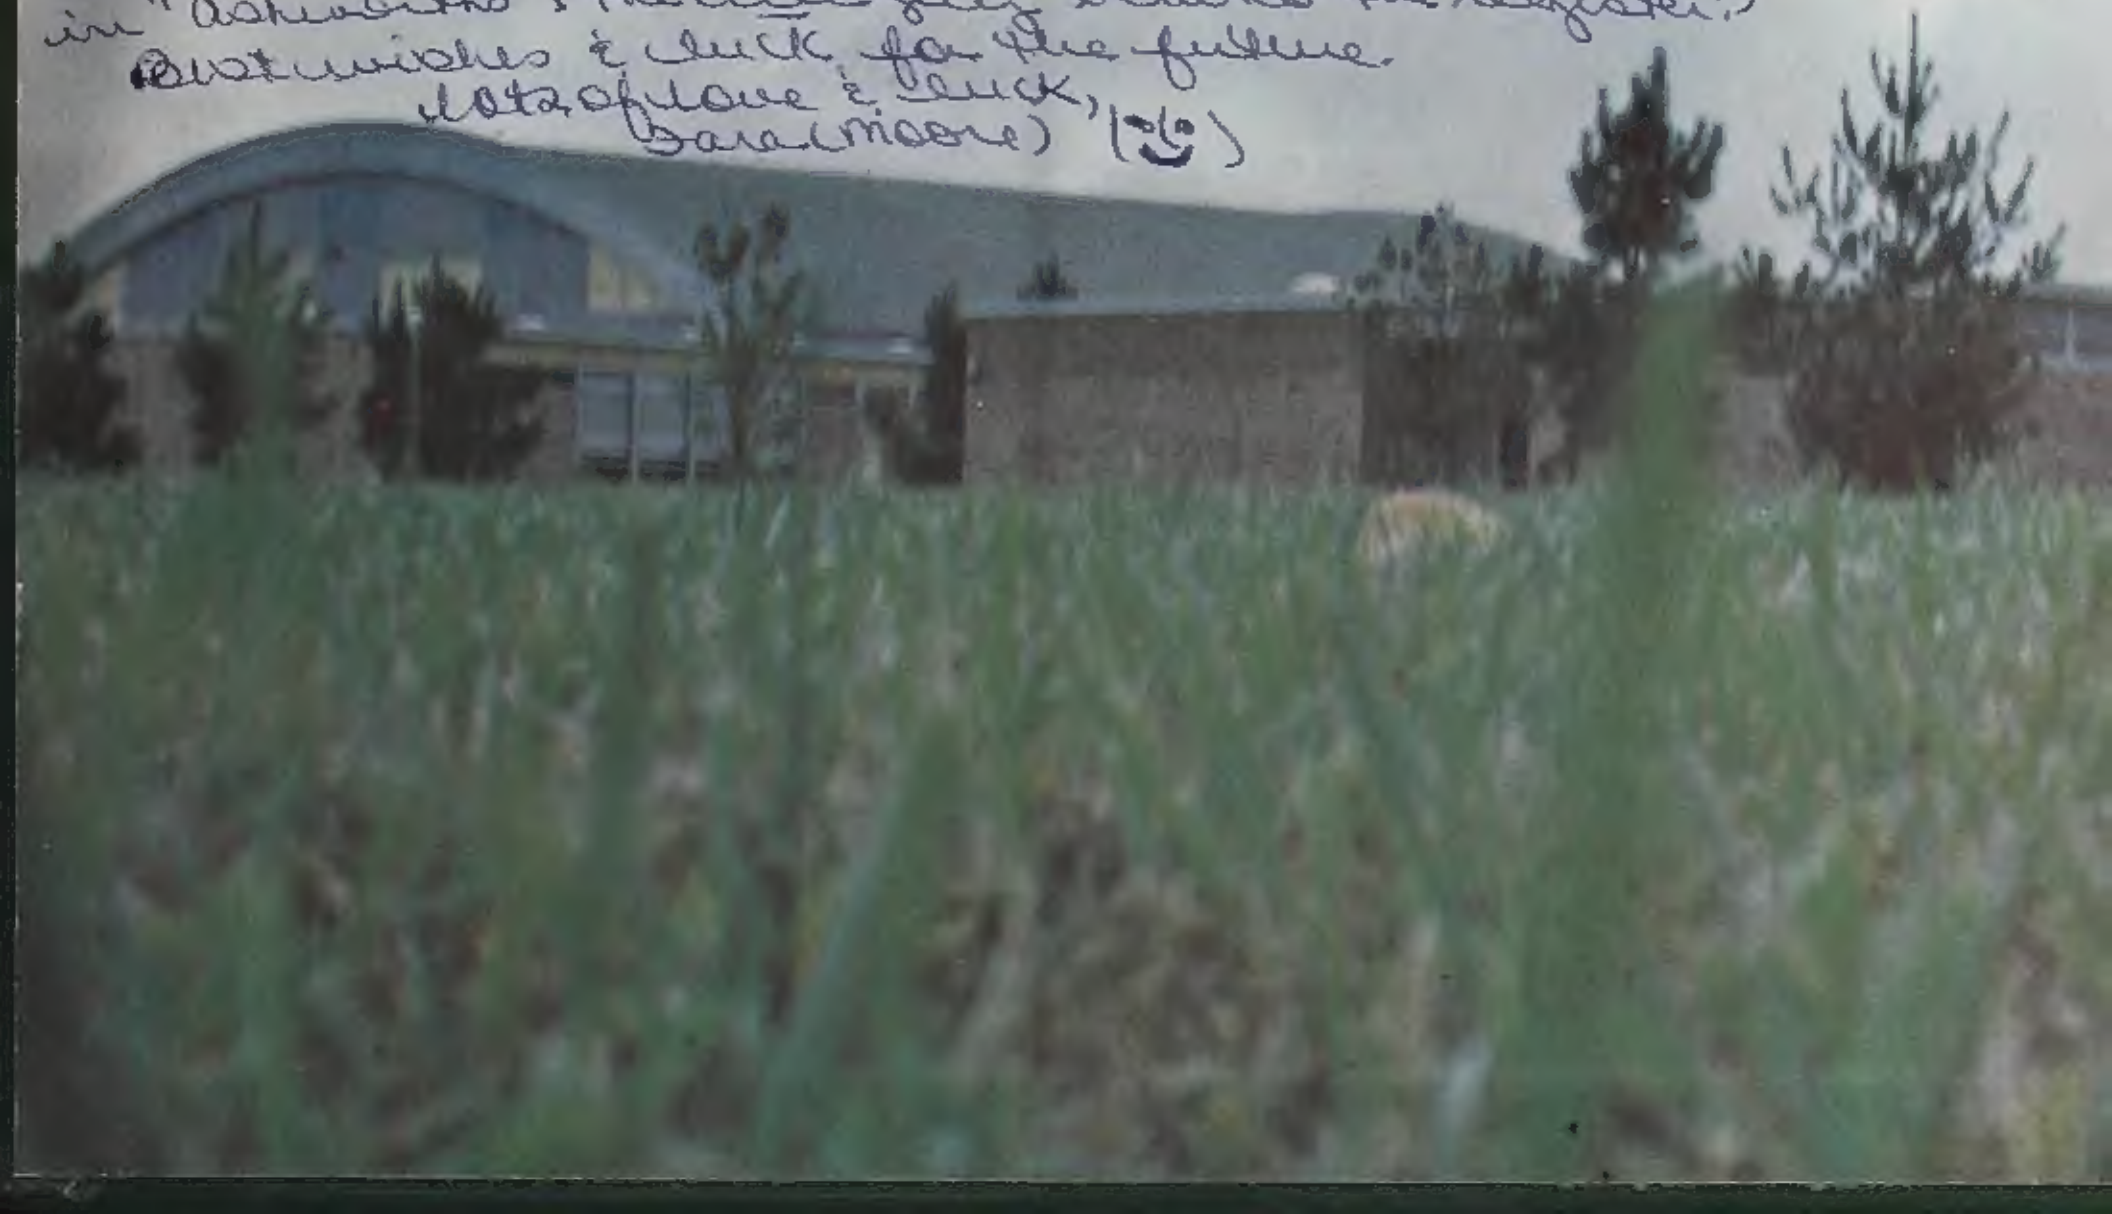

I want you to come to see me some this summer - at home - and you don't work too hard - OK! Please do one thing for me - keep on smiling your winning smile always OK!

You are just like a "brother" to me and I want you to keep your personality & good looks just the way they are.

I hope to be in some of your classes next year - stay the same - don't you forget all of the times you waited on me in "Ashworth's" (the cute guy behind the register!)

Best wishes & luck for the future.

lots of love & luck,
Sara (moore) (☺)

Today is his first day of school. He is beginning a process called "education". Though he does not realize what he is about to encounter, this educational process will provide him the opportunity to become a complete person. His education is the foremost aspect in preparing him for the complex world which he will someday enter.

As an educated man once pleaded, "Let us pray that the thinking people of the world will take advantage of the opportunity afforded by the 'first day of school' and build continuously towards an enduring peace".

This is the beginning of an invigorating experience called education . . .

Sue Tomlin: Prominent Educator

The ability to communicate with students, openmindedness, fairness, an outgoing personality and dedication to one's occupation are admirable traits for any person. Undeniably, CHS was fortunate in having a member of its faculty with these outstanding qualities.

In the classroom, her students all benefited from her genuine interest in their educational growth and broadening their knowledge of the science and mathematical subjects which she taught. In addition to this, she took an avid interest in her students' personal life and well-being.

As head of the Student Advisory Council, she worked for the

and Outstanding Person

improvement of each student's situation at CHS. During a time of racial conflict at the school, her openmindedness and wisdom gained her the respect of all students concerned.

In addition to her SAC responsibilities, she was advisor of the Student Council and head sponsor of the Senior Class. She presently participates in a pottery class and a weaving class at N.C. State University.

It is not often that educators are as dedicated to their profession as she. Her happiness stems from fulfilling the educational needs of her students.

For these reasons, we dedicate YRAC '72, to you, Mrs. Sue Tomlin.

Faculty Provides Student Guidance

Mr. Glen Rose — Appalachian State, BS Geometry — Bus Drivers

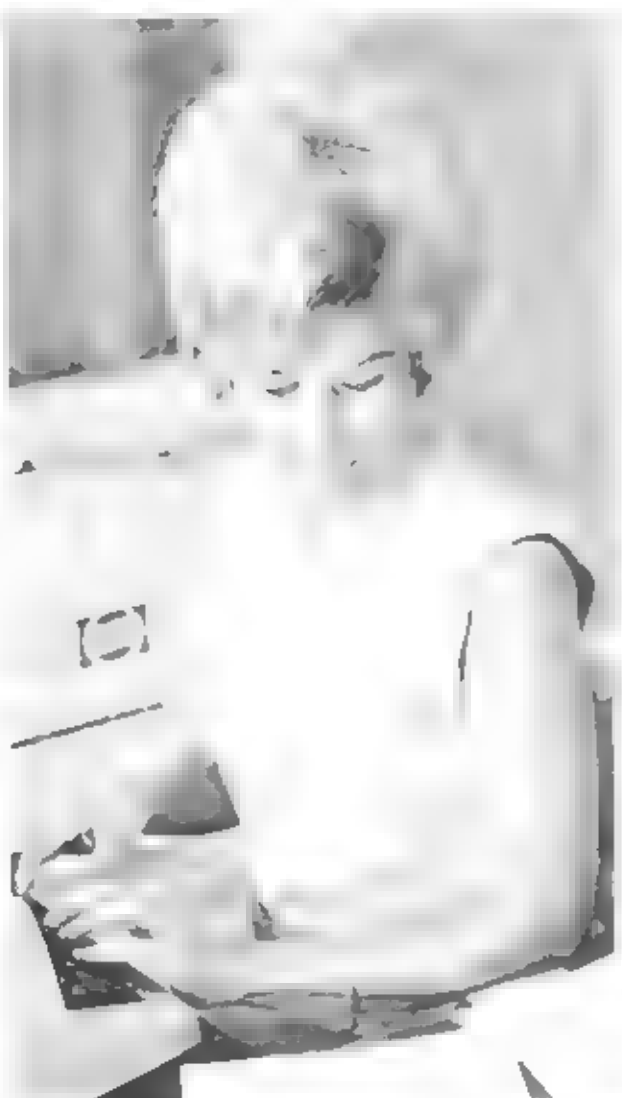

Mrs. Jane Ingold — School Secretary

Mrs. Betsy Martin — UNC-G N.C. State BS MA. Guidance (Seniors)

For the most part, the efforts of the administration at CHS went unnoticed. Principal John Stevens, bus driver administrator Glen Rose, and secretaries Jane Ingold and Barbara Norman nevertheless continued to work diligently throughout the year to run CHS smoothly. At the beginning of the school year, the administration found itself without an assistant principal; however, they quickly recognized the administrative abilities of Mr. Fulford, a science teacher new to CHS this year. Thus, Mr. Fulford became the administrative assistant as soon as a replacement science teacher was found.

The guidance department constituted another area of administration at CHS. Mrs. Martin and Mrs. Rigdon, the CHS counselors, assisted students in deciding upon their plans after high school.

Mrs. Barbara Norman — Teacher's Aide

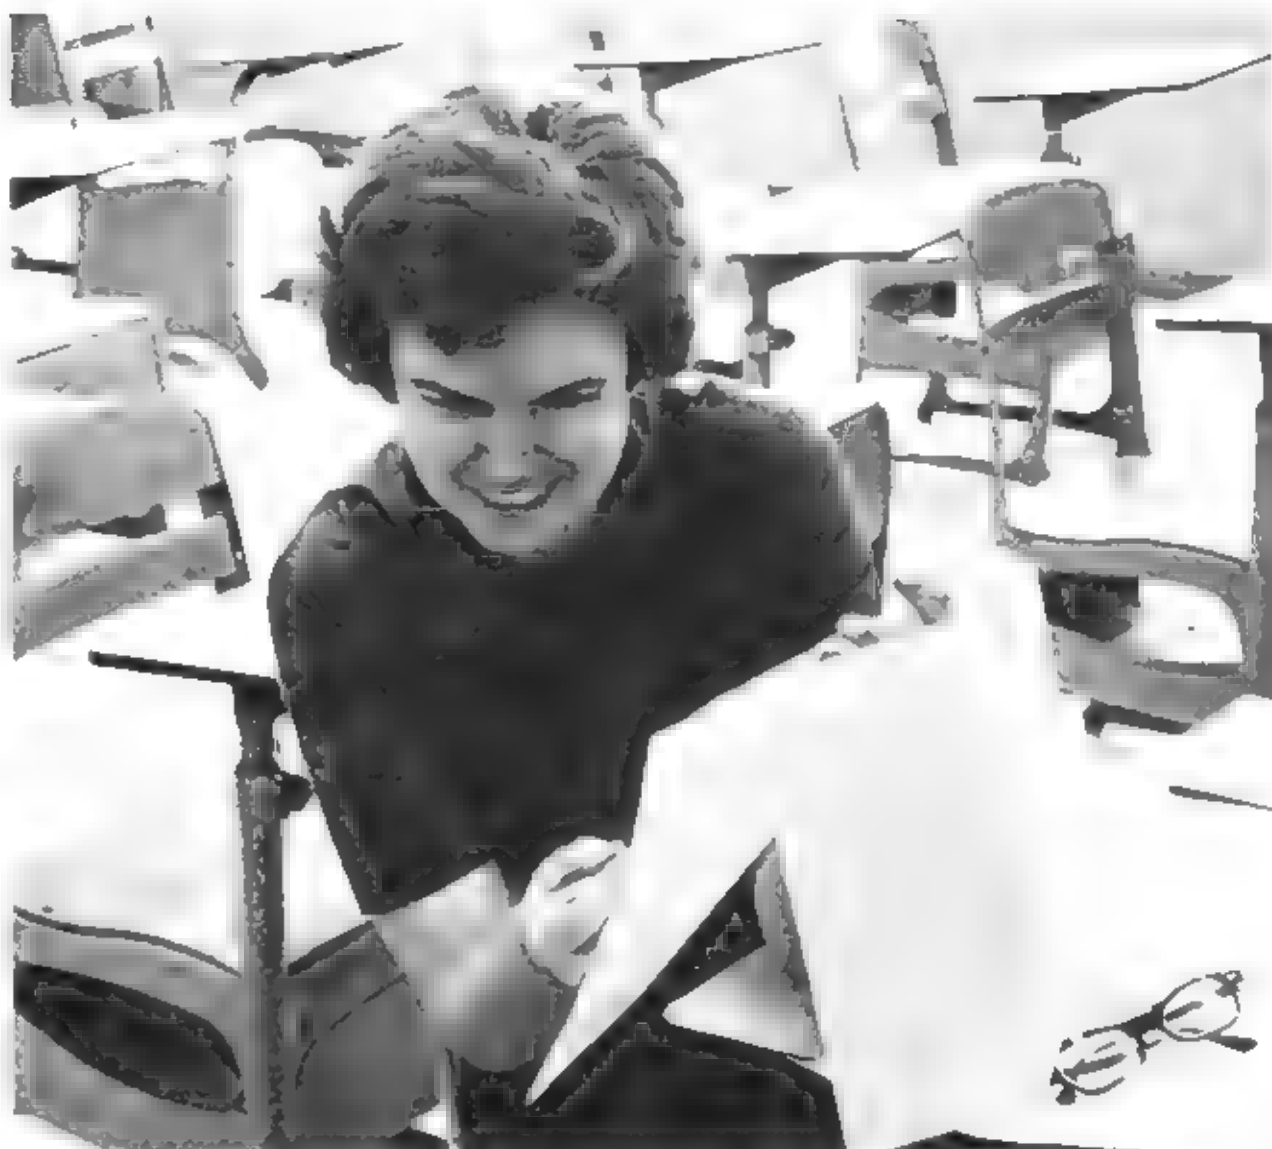

Mrs. Sara Rigdon — Appalachian N.C. State, BS MEd., Guidance

After studying one's own language for many years, more courses on the same subject might seem boring. However, CHS realized this fact and made its English courses invigorating.

In the area of novels, students read classics like The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn as well as new creations such as The Andromeda Strain. Poetry included well-known favorites by Sandburg, Frost, and Lord Byron, as well as the bizarre by Feringhetti. Shakespeare's Macbeth and Wilder's Our Town were examples of drama studied in the English department.

English teachers stressed grammar only in instances concerning compositions on this literature. In some courses term papers were required at the end of the year.

Mrs. Annie McCoy — Livingstone College, BA: English II,III

Mrs. JoAnn Hines — Atlantic Christian College UNC-Chapel Hill, BA, MAT, English I,III, J.V. and Varsity Cheerleaders

Miss JoAnn Eskridge — UNC-Chapel Hill, BA; English II,III

Often, during the course of the year, the English teachers assigned research topics to their students. The various facilities offered by the CHS library became extremely useful in those cases. The librarians reserved books necessary for doing such research and helped students search for other pertinent materials.

In addition to using the library for research, students came to the library for pure enjoyment. The library added many new books to its shelves this year. Plays, journals, diaries, and fiction made up some of the various topics of these books. The library also received several newspapers daily, in addition to getting magazines periodically.

Mrs. Sue Tomlin — Meredith, NCSU AB, Physics, Trig., Analytics, Gen. Math, Student Council

CHS offered the student a number of courses in each of the major branches of high school mathematics: general math, geometry, and algebra.

In the field of mathematics, the basic courses offered were General Math I and II, but the student interested in business could take bookkeeping or business mathematics.

The basic algebra sequence, Algebra I and II, covered the techniques from solving linear equations in one variable to solving simultaneous equations.

In geometry, Plain Geometry was the course initially taken, although one could study the subject further by taking Trigonometry and Analytic Geometry.

Advanced Math was the highest course offered at CHS. It enveloped many fields of mathematics, covering algebra, trigonometry, and analysis.

Mrs. Elaine Melson — Appalachian State Teachers College, BS; Gen Math., Adv. Math., FTA

Mrs. Diane Thomas — East Carolina Univ., UNC-Chapel Hill, AB, BS, MAT; Algebra I, II

In keeping up with the increasing knowledge obtained each year in the scientific field, CHS had its scientific department well-equipped to give each student a more meaningful education.

Students in the life sciences studied biology by using microscopes; watching films, and dissecting a number of animals. In advanced biology, students delved deeper into the structure of cells and dissected sharks.

Chemistry and physics students enjoyed their many labs. Students of chemistry learned of the atom and its properties while Physics taught students the principles behind motion and waves.

Both of these courses were characterized by relatively new textbooks, which were acclaimed by all to be more interesting and challenging.

Mr. Charles Maidon — Elon College. AB; History, Phy. Ed., Football, Tennis, Basketball, Golf, F.C.A.

In an effort to make the social studies curriculum more interesting and relevant, many course changes were made. In years past, all juniors had been required to take U.S. History, a subject which they had studied in the lower grades for several years. Because of the success of one semester self interest courses such as Sociology, Economics, and Psychology, U.S. History, was dropped from the curriculum and replaced by other one semester courses, including recent American History, Law and Justice, and Minority groups. With these new courses, interest at CHS in the social sciences reached a new high.

CHS students interested in business occupations after finishing high school could take a number of related courses offered by CHS. Typing, shorthand, bookkeeping, and business mathematics comprised the list of the business-oriented studies at Cary High.

One of the essential skills in the field of business is typing. In the various CHS typing courses this year, students learned basic typing procedures, speed, and accuracy. Shorthand was learned like a foreign language. The "chicken-scratchings" which were unintelligible to the student at the beginning of the year proved to be a time saving method. In the bookkeeping and business math courses, students studied the methods for keeping records and figuring out sales percentages and interest, knowledge which will be invaluable.

CHS provided numerous courses this year in vocational training and employment.

In electronics students learned the scientific basis behind electricity. In addition, they applied this newly-acquired knowledge in the lab.

Health occupations was an excellent course for future nurses. Besides studying procedures, students learned various aspects of the nursing profession through actual experience.

Auto mechanics students learned about every major part of the automobile while learning an important occupation.

The combination of classroom and work situations provided by Industrial Cooperative Training and Distributive Education enabled students to acquire valuable business skills.

CHS offered courses in creativity, transportation, and education.

"The Marching 100," directed by Mr. Jimmy Burns and drum major Dave Rockefeller, presented many captivating performances, including half-time shows, parades, and concerts.

In the art department students learned to be creative, engaging in many modes of artistic expression while studying the theory behind these methods.

The CHS home economics courses helped prepare students in many skills useful in later life.

Driver's Education instructed students in fundamentals of safe driving by means of classroom study and driving experience.

Aviation was designed to prepare students to qualify for pilot licenses.

For slower learners CHS provided special education classes, which helped these students achieve.

CHS students enjoyed many benefits provided by Cary High School this year.

In addition to intramural competition, the physical education department provided classes to increase physical vigor and skills. The P.E. department also sponsored the various interscholastic sports.

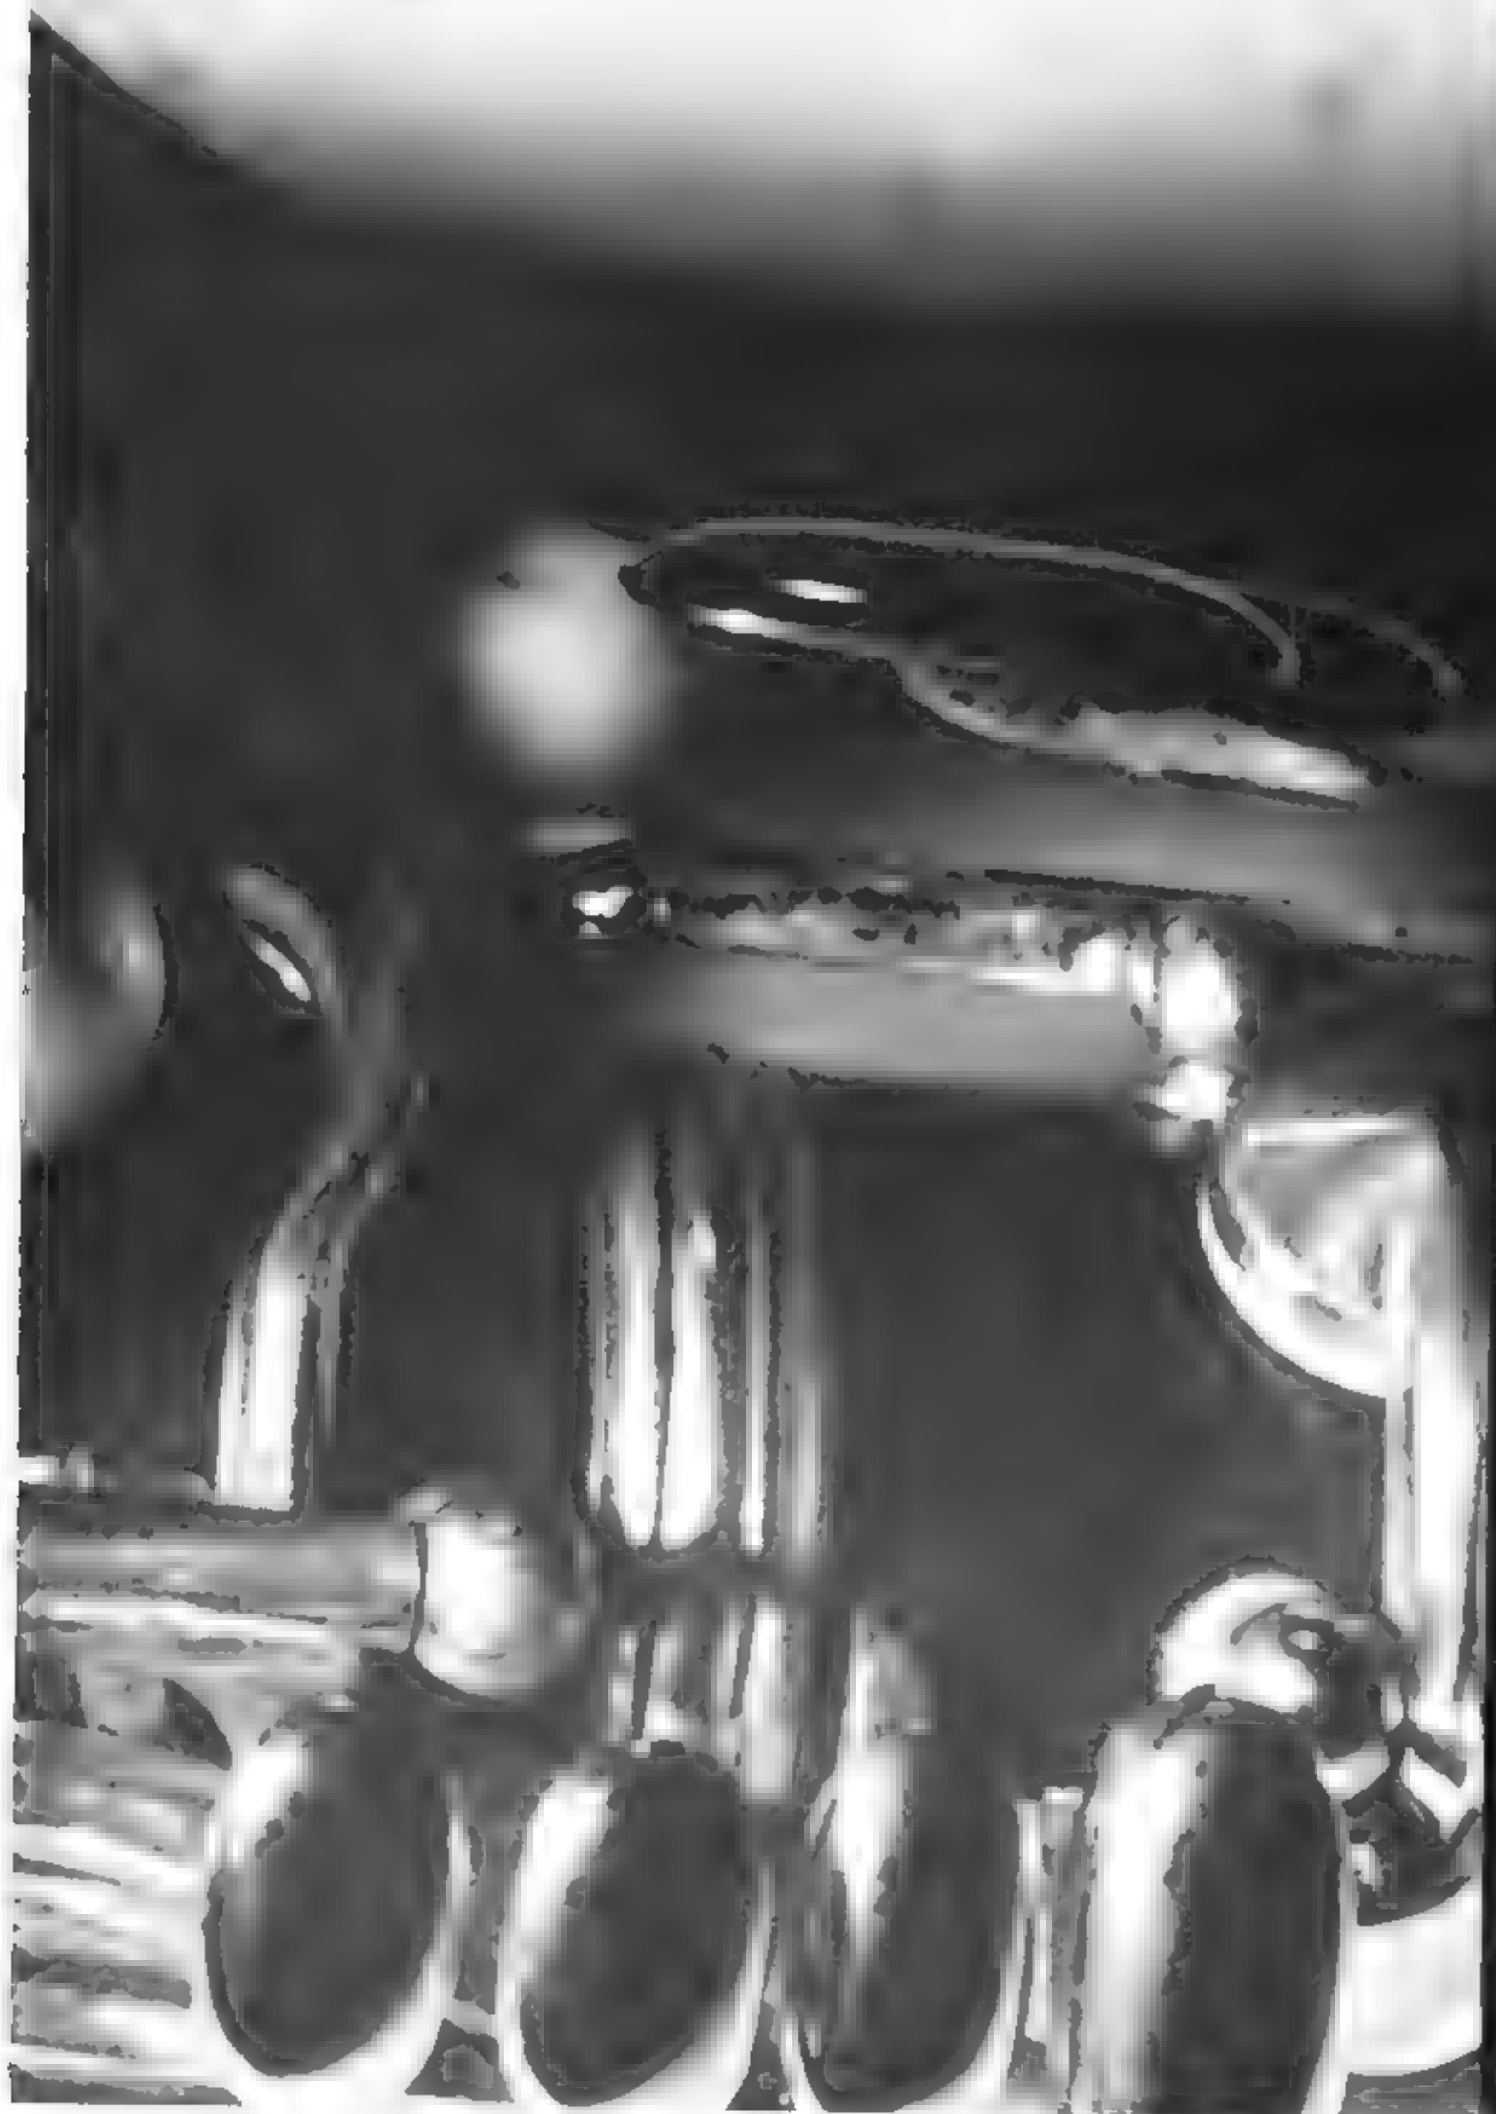

CHS students often did not see the janitorial staff at work. The well-kept grounds and spotless buildings, however, reflected the long hours they put into their work.

Feeding over a thousand students with unique tastes and insatiable appetites would seem to be an impossible task, but the CHS cafeteria staff met this challenge again this year.

The CHS Student Council governed the student body again this year. Besides planning events of interest to all students, the Student Council helped to promote better relations between the students, faculty, and administration.

The Student Council managed the Student Supply Store where such essential school items as pencils, pens, erasers, and paper were sold.

The Student Council also allotted parking spaces to all students who paid the required fee, and fined those students who parked in another's designated parking area. Another task operated by the Student Council this year was the distribution of locks at a minimum rental fee. Members of the Student Council used the school's intercom system to make announcements of interest to students and faculty.

in Leadership and Scholarship

The CHS Beta Club enjoyed a prosperous year of activities. The annual Beta Club candy sales began early in the school year. The money from the candy sales paid for various community projects, the Beta Club Scholarship, and arrangements for CHS Beta Club members to attend the State Beta Club Convention in Raleigh.

Among the various projects to help other people, club members helped address envelopes for the American Respiratory Association. Later in the year members enjoyed a speaker from the Governor Morehead School for the blind. This woman introduced Beta Club Members to various methods and equipment employed in teaching the blind.

Beta Club members ended the year by giving a scholarship to one of their members for his or her outstanding scholastic achievement, leadership, and personal character.

CHS cheerleaders played an important role in athletic events. Even when spirits were low, a rousing cheer led by these girls boosted morale. CHS was fortunate in having vivacious Varsity and Junior Varsity Cheerleaders who added to the team's efforts despite inclement weather or other adverse conditions.

The spirited Varsity Cheerleaders showed their talents on many occasions. At pep rallies, football games, basketball games, and other athletic proceedings, the Varsity Cheerleaders were present and leading cheers.

The JV Cheerleaders were also invaluable to CHS spirit. Their presence at games and pep rallies was inspirational to the Junior Varsity athletes.

Besides learning new cheers, the Cheerleading squads were occupied with making Cary Imp posters, selling Cary stickers, and leading impromptu pep rallies. Both the CHS Varsity and Junior Varsity cheering squads displayed high standards of sportsmanship as well as outstanding cooperation while serving CHS.

Operation of School

Many CHS students worked in service for Cary High this year. Two of the ways in which students served were office and library assistants.

Many students worked in the CHS offices. These students delivered messages, mimeographed copies for teachers, and collected absentee lists. Credit for the smooth operation of the school can be attributed to the diligence and dedication of these workers.

Other students worked as library assistants. These students checked books, kept the library organized, decorated, and assisted students. Because of their hard work, all students were better able to benefit from the library. Certainly, their efforts were a cause of increased library work this year.

Terry Toth, president, listens as suggestions are made by club members.

Accurate notes are taken by Secretary Mollie Petty.

Students for Better Human Understanding helped their fellowman this year by achieving many worth while goals.

SBHU members also listened to speakers during the year, from varied occupations, races, and religions. These speakers talked about pollution and drug problems, as well as other problems facing young people today. They heard a member of the John Birch Society and an organic food specialist.

SBHU members sold

Christmas cards for UNICEF, participated in a walk for hunger, and collected gum wrappers for which they received two cents each, which went to a worthy cause. In addition to helping others this helped cut down on the litter problem.

As the year came to a close, members could look back with the satisfaction that they had helped humanity in their own way, however small.

Through SBHU and Drama

Julie Bowling makes idle conversation with the townspeople Amy Webb, Betty Moore, and Sheila McDonald in The Lottery.

Janice Whelan comes upon a bewildering situation with Jon Newsome, Spann Brockman, and Tom Flebotte in Fragments.

CHS students interested in drama joined the Limelighters this year. This club was very important to those involved in dramatics since each was able to display his talent or skill through acting, designing, building scenery, or performing, and various other tasks which aided the success of the Limelighters' plays. The Limelighters produced three one-act plays in the fall and a three-act play in the spring.

The Drama Club's members gained much experience and insight to theatrical arts from visiting community and university plays, drama workshops, and discussion groups in the Raleigh-Durham area. In addition they participated in the Carolina Dramatic Association Festivals in the spring.

The Limelighters gave each member valuable knowledge of the theater. At the same time students enjoyed binding friendships and exchanging new ideas in the drama world.

Dale Marsh and Dolly Zacny portray Adam and Eve in the play The Apple-Bit.

James Beckwith calls roll before the townspeople in The Lottery.

Students at CHS this year had the rare opportunity of seeing the formation of a new club. Being a new club, the CHS German Club busied itself with obtaining a solid, basic foundation. Anyone interested in Germany's culture and people could join. The German Club Constitution was patterned after the Beta and Spanish Clubs' constitutions. One of the most important functions of the club was its participation in the International Christmas Party, the first at CHS. At this festival, comprised of German, French, and Spanish Club members, skits and refreshments were enjoyed by all. German Club members decorated a small Christmas Tree and provided a miniature house made of gingerbread. Members also dreamed of a visit to Germany; but since such a trip would be impossible, the club had a somewhat shorter trip.

Steve Jones, President, hands out more of the notorious French brew to a member.

The French Club of CHS began the year of 1971-1972 with the annual initiation of new members. The initiation consisted of the usual comical attire, group skits, and drinking of the infamous French Brew.

Before Christmas vacation, the French Club participated in an International Christmas Party with the Spanish and German Clubs. Christmas carols were sung, refreshments were served, and skits were performed. During the spring of the year, the French Club enjoyed a banquet at N.C. State University.

The Club also witnessed a demonstration on the art of cooking French crepes by Mrs. Maddox, the sponsor, which all present devoured.

All in all, the students enjoyed a variety of events which proved to be one of the most active years the French Club had experienced in years.

Los Alegros, the Spanish Club, added spice to this year's Spanish departments.

The year began with new Los Alegros members participating in a rather unusual initiation. At another meeting later, President Pat Winslow spoke on her exciting trip to Mexico and showed slides of the beautiful Mexican countryside. The annual Christmas party, complete with pinata and music, spruced up the holiday season with a Spanish flare.

Los Alegros members ushered at the Ringling Brothers, Barnum, and Bailey Circus when it came to Raleigh. With the money, they sent another member to a Spanish speaking country.

With the election of new officers, Los Alegros members ended the year with an "Adios".

Three members were elected to county FTA positions in 1972. They were Kathy Edwards, President; Sue Carpenter, Secretary; Kathel Hargrave, Historian; Members also raised money to contribute to the Wake County FTA scholarship, which was awarded to one county member.

Members also visited Campbell College and closed the year with a visit to the kindergarten through third grades at the Jeffrey's Grove School, an experimental school.

Officers of the Science Club provided interesting programs consisting of authoritative speakers, informative films, and stimulating discussions. Some of the topics presented included studies in ecology, space, and nuclear reactions. Several club members attended the Agricultural and Life Sciences exhibits at N.C. State this fall. Members also visited the Duke Marine Lab in Durham.

Additional knowledge in the area of science plus personal enjoyment made this year's Science Club worthwhile for all those who participated.

Future Business Leaders of America enjoyed another busy year at CHS.

The year began with the annual initiation of new members. This initiation, as usual, was considered a "rough" one. Among the many dreaded tasks that FBLA's new members had to do was the drinking of the famed FBLA Brew. This notorious brew's recipe was kept secret from the new members until after the concoction had been imbibed.

FBLA's other activities included selling Tom Watt kits before Christmas in order to earn money, thus sending one of their membership to the annual State Convention.

The year ended with goodbyes and secret thoughts about what to put in next year's FBLA Brew.

The CHS chapter of Cooperative Office Occupations provided students interested in business and office occupations a chance to learn new techniques while they made new friendships.

COO taught students how to operate the various pieces of machinery used in today's modern businesses. These students obtained new knowledge in the field of office occupations. Machines, which these future office personnel practiced with, included the mimeograph machine, the adding machine, and dictaphone. Students also learned the basics of office procedures and discovered other highlights of the business world.

ICT and DE students obtained jobs during and after school hours. These students worked in Cary, Raleigh, and Apex at various places of employment. ICT and DE students worked at Krogers, at A&P stores, and with the highway drafting commission.

From ICT to DE, students learned how to give persuasive sales pitches. They discovered how to dress manikins and form interesting display windows.

From ICT and DE, students received many helpful hints which made it possible for them to maintain good jobs.

Health Occupations students study nursing skills in the classroom and in actual experience. In the classroom, students read interesting books on first aid and nursing technique. A classroom mannequin was used to practice taking care of patients. HO students also worked at Wake Memorial Hospital where they gained actual nursing experience.

From membership in HO, CHS students formed many new friendships as they acquired worthwhile knowledge in the field of nursing.

For future planning as a cook, seamstress, or housekeeper, Future Homemakers of America was the club for the interested student to join. During its monthly meetings, the FHA helped students train for their future roles as it provided an atmosphere of friendship and understanding.

FHA members participated in the annual Betty Crocker Home-maker Test in December. Students who received a high score on this nationwide test won a scholarship.

As one of the FHA's money making projects, the members sold cookbooks containing delicious cake recipes. With this money, this organization sponsored a mother-daughter banquet. Later in the year, the FHA also prepared a tea during which fondue foods were served

Future Farmers of America is an important organization of high school students who are interested in agriculture and farming. Through this organization, these students learn about crops, livestock, soil conservation, forestry, and dairy farming. The CHS chapter of Future Farmers of America participated in many exciting activities during the 1971-1972 school year, such as money making projects and a summer camp in which they learned valuable knowledge of farm life.

FFA members worked one Saturday at the North Carolina State Fair taking care of the Children's Barnyard. The club also sponsored an orientation for the eighth graders and participated in a hayride in November. FFA members ended their year with a softball game.

"Cheer, cheer for old Cary High was exactly what the 1971-1972 CHS Pep Club did this year. This group of high spirited students added sparks of enthusiasm to the Cary pep rallies and games.

In addition to knowing all the cheers and shouting these out of school spirit events, the Pep Club also participated in other activities. The annual homecoming game was decorated with a green and white chain draped across the spectator fence. Pep Club members sold links of this chain for a nickel each to students who wished to back the team. Pep Club members also rode in the annual Cary Band Day Parade.

Another money-making project of the Pep Club were the sale of Christmas cards. Members walked the streets of Cary in the bitter winter weather selling cards of Christmas greetings.

Pep Club members worked hard at CHS this year increasing school spirit. They accomplished the feat of waking "up the echoes, cheering their best."

Through Their Participation

Members of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes participated in another busy year as members of the club found that Christianity plays a large role in athletics as well as every other activity.

FCA members practiced Christian ethics as they participated in CHS sports, as shown through their sportsmanship and concern for fellow man. Although these standards were often difficult to follow, FCA members did their best to uphold them.

Often, speakers attended the FCA meetings. These speakers included college and professional athletes who had found that Christian ethics and sports go together.

At the end of the year, FCA members were grateful that they had realized the relevancy of Christianity in sports.

Drum Major Dave Rockefeller taught the freshmen and reviewed the other members of the band in the art of parade marching. Parade formations, cadences, and corners were performed.

The color guards, flag girls, and majorettes added to the band's success. The twirling of rifles, flags, and batons provided excitement to the halftime shows and parades.

During football games, pep rallies, and other events, the Cary Band, demonstrated the meaning of spirit. This year's band proved that they were one of the best bands in the area.

1971 was another year of frustrations and disappointments for the Cary Varsity Football Team. The team's season record of two wins and eight losses was not a true indication of how determined the play of the team was.

The season began with a favorable 14-0 win over Apex, but three straight defeats which were decided in the closing minutes seemed to break the players' spirit. As a result, they were demolished by Jordan 20-0 in the fifth game. Then, a stunning 15-8 victory over Southern Durham gave the Imps an impetus to strive onward to close out the season in winning style. But again, injuries and bad breaks plagued the Imps and the season ended with five disheartening losses.

Nevertheless, the players can be proud of their effort. They practiced hard together, cheered each other on during the games, and proved themselves to be good sports in the face of defeat. If these can be considered worthy characteristics, then this season can be considered a success.

Ted Williams is brought down from behind while Milton Battle (32) looks on, and Tony Butler (43) continues to block.

An exciting and successful Junior Varsity Football Team displayed outstanding talent and determination this year. With a record of seven wins and one loss, the JV's captured the Conference title in a rough District III 3A conference.

Beginning the season with a bright outlook, the Baby Imps upset Northern Durham 14-6 and then followed with two successive victories over Chapel Hill and Hillsborough. Then a rainy game at Jordan dampened the teams chances for a perfect season, as they dropped the game by the score of 8-6.

Getting back on the winning road the Imps downed the next four opponents handily, the last two being Roxboro and Garner which they beat by the scores of 19-0 and 33-6. Before those games, those teams had been involved in a three way tie for first place; but the victories left no doubt who the conference champion was.

When victories become a habit of a team, a team of champions is definitely the result. This is the type of team that the Cary Junior Varsity was throughout the season.

Runners to Successful Season

A group of Cary distance runners enjoy a moment of relaxation before an important meet.

Cary's Cross Country team enjoyed another banner year. They defeated opponent after opponent and very seldom ran into the face of defeat.

Led by Mark Gaylord, the harriers got the season off to a good start and suffered no regular season defeats. After a disappointing eleventh place finish in the Halifax County, Va. Invitational meet, they handily won the conference meet. Next the team finished a proud second in the Eastern Sectionals. Then at the state meet at Duke Univ., the Imps finished fourth, thus concluding a satisfying and rewarding season.

The backbone of the distance runners were the seniors, but underclassmen showed much promise for the future. These underclassmen will give Coach Tom Kelly a nucleus to work with next year, and hopefully Cary will again be a top state title contender.

Contrary to pre-season forecasts, the CHS basketball team posted a very strong third place in the conference. The Imps ripped off five straight victories at the beginning of the season, but a vulnerability to pressing defenses dragged the Imps record to 8-3 at midseason.

After three straight losses after midseason the Imps overcame the ball control problems and closed the season with five victories in the next six contests, thus earning a spot in the District playoffs.

The Imps then took Vance 51-48 in the first round and Roxboro 49-39 in the semifinal to face Garner in the finals. The cross-town rivals won with a 36-30 margin.

The season was an uphill battle against taller teams, and "lady luck", but the Imps pulled through with a fine 15-8 record.

Baby Imps Display Promise

The basketball program at CHS took on a promising outlook for the future as the Junior Imps proved themselves to be a talented and winning team.

The Baby Imps opened the season with three consecutive wins, before their first defeat against a taller Chapel Hill team. After downing a tough Hillsborough team, the Imps smashed cross-town rival Garner 73-42. The Imps posted four wins in the next seven games, before going into a three game losing streak. Snapping out of their dilemma, the Imps finished out the season in victorious style.

This team should add much to the future success of Cary's basketball program. They posted the winningest record in recent years for a CHS J.V. team. Polishing their skills for varsity careers, the team members acquired skills that will prove to be invaluable in future years.

The CHS grapplers enjoyed another year of success. Led by experienced seniors and several talented underclassmen, theimps posted a seasonal record of ten wins and three losses.

The season was opened with a rousing 39-32 victory over Govenor Morehead, but next a tough Sanford team downed the Imps 37-31. The Imps won their next two outings with Roxboro, but also dropped two heartbrakers to Broughton and Sanford to even their record at three wins and three losses. The Imps then recovered closing out the season with eight straight wins to finish undefeated, in the conference.

The wrestlers then finished only second in the conference tournament, and then several wrestlers went on and competed in the regional tournaments.

By hard practice and determined efforts, each member of the team showed individual and team pride by continuing in the victorious tradition of CHS wrestling teams.

Two new sports added to the CHS athletic program this year were Soccer and Tennis. Although inexperienced, both teams laid the foundation for future success in these sports.

This year's soccer team won only two matches against five defeats, but the losses came at the hands of opponents whose soccer team's program had been in existence for several years.

The two victories were both 1-0 thrillers over Garner and Ravenscroft.

The tennis team expanded to include both boys and girls. The girls won two matches against Roxboro in the fall. The boys, as well as the girls, were scheduled mostly for spring matches, where a talented crop of underclassmen brightened the sports outlook for future years.

After the game all is forgotten in an act of sportsmanship.

Vance Heafner, one of the state's leading golfers, pushes in a putt at MacGregor Downs Golf Club

The CHS golf team this year was characterized by inexperienced newcomers. It was an uphill battle in which there were some upsetting defeat and some triumphant victories in an expanded conference.

Cary was represented in each match by five men who qualified from the team as a whole. These players were picked from the team in qualification rounds played at Pine Hollow Golf Course each week. The matches were played at courses near the home school every year.

Golf is more of an individual effort for every man. Vance Heafner, Cary's top medalist proved himself capable by becoming a well known golfer throughout the state. The team was composed of underclassmen who show much promise for the future. Even though the CHS golf team had a somewhat disappointing season. There was still a formidable nucleus of underclassmen which will lead the team in coming years.

Baseball at CHS was expected to improve considerably this year. With several of last year's lettermen returning and a crop of talented underclassmen, the team faced an unusually tough schedule of non-conference opponents and the always difficult conference games.

The team was fortunate this year in having one of the strongest pitching staffs in the conference. This outstanding group was composed of several lettermen, who were mostly underclassmen. In addition to this, Cary has a fine hitting and fielding team.

Compared to previous seasons, the year was a success for Coach Staley's Imps. With a very promising coalition of underclassmen, the outlook for future excellence of CHS baseball teams should appear bright.

Long hours of diligent workouts comprise the largest part of track. Each event in a meet is a brief, personal culmination for the dedicated athlete. Placing finishes in these events lead to the accumulation of team score points.

Many points this year came from the distance runs, an area supported by a vigorous cross country program; however, the team also was strong in some of the other running events and in some of the field events.

The season proved to be rewarding for the track team members. The seniors had provided valuable stability to the team, and the underclassmen had vastly matured and were already looking toward next spring.

Adapting to a new school was not very easy, as a very large class of Sophomores learned this year. Despite overcrowding and confusion, all of the first year was not bad for them. They did an excellent job of selling candy with the entire class participating in this endeavor.

In the strong class rivalry at CHS, the Sophomores proved themselves by demonstrating their spirit during School Spirit Week. Enthusiasm compensated for inexperience, and the Sophomores won second place for their decoration of B building to the theme of "The Second Trojan War".

Having been led by competent officers and supported by pride in their class, the Sophomores proved that they were beginning their high school careers in a successful manner. Truly the Class of '74 will add much to the quality of Cary High School.

CHS Curriculum Exciting for Underclassmen

The junior year at CHS can be frustrating. In this transitional year, the Juniors were bombarded with a bewildering volley of tests. The first test taken was the PSAT-NMSQT, whose questions were even more perplexing than the title. The Class of '73 also took marathon mental maturity and achievement tests. Some stout-hearted Juniors even took the SAT.

Despite the confusion created by these tests, the Juniors had many successful projects. The traditional magazine sale exceeded all expectations, and thus the Juniors were able to finance an excellent Junior-Senior Prom in the spring. The arrival of class rings also added to the spring excitement.

Senior Class Officers: Roslyn Royster, Vice-President; Phil Wolfe, Sergeant at Arms; Irma Sorrell, Treasurer; Teresa Mangum, Secretary; Nancy McGinnis, President

Prior to graduation, the Seniors participated in various activities during the year.

In the annual School Spirit Week, Seniors labored long hours on their first-place decoration of "D" building, the building in which the Class of '72 later placed the Senior Christmas Tree.

In preparation for graduation, the Senior Class voted to have "We've Only Just Begun" as the class song, green and white as the colors, the white rose as the flower, and "Champion the right to be yourself . . ." as the class motto. The Class of '72 elected mascots in the spring to serve in graduation proceedings, thus leaving only practice to be completed prior to graduation.

Donald

I never know how to write ~~put~~ these things, cause since we're not seniors yet we'll still see each other next year and next year is really going to be a great year. We're going to be the absolutely greatest seniors ever at CHS.

Just think, when graduation time comes around, we'll probably be sitting next to each other That's good, cause I'll probably need a lot of support (just kidding)

Be good and I'll see ya
this summer

Don't forget me

Love ya,
Betty Sue (Self)

Donald, you are something else - more less like my brother what more can I say - we have endured together and that itself. you have cripled to me
Donald, you
dear you have
be very disappointed
how can I ever repay very, very true and remember and hold dear.
the games next year was 20, so good - out the only one candy for mention a clock. Date care of yourself and remember me
for you shall always be in my mind.
Love,
Dee Potter

even to Johnny - just can't comprehend how grown to me and I will I don't see you this summer - all you have done - you are for something that I will always be looking for you at got it!! She can do
I'll do you realize you

As another year comes to a close at Cary High School, we wish to express our sincere appreciation to all those who aided in making YRAC '72 a tremendous success. To Mr. John Stevens, who supported the YRAC and often granted special permission for staff work; to our sponsor, Mrs. Marjorie O'Keeffe for guidance and moral support; a special thanks to Mr. Don Felty for the many hours spent developing pictures without delay, and advice to student photographers; especially to the James T. Hamptons for allowing their home to be used as a workshop and being understanding with the late night deadlines; and most of all to the faculty and students of Cary High School for their cooperation in the making of YRAC '72.

Today is his last day of school. He has finished the process called "education". As he reflects on the memories of years gone by, he becomes acutely aware of what has taken place in his life. All aspects of the educational process have been determining factors in making him a complete person. He has spent approximately 25% of his life preparing for the future; now he is educated to take his place in the world.

Loraid,

The year has gone by so fast,
I can't believe it's over I have many memories of my years at CHS and ~~you~~ you are right there among them (on the top)! I enjoyed ^{luck} our friendship in Algebra class, Good ~ Senior English and I'll see you this summer,
I wish you health, happiness, and success
~ the future. Stay your happy go lucky way and you'll go far!! Take care and don't mess down the school just yet!!

Luv, Y2,
Lulu

Stud, words can never express the feelings I have for you. In other words I LOVE YOU!!! I want you to keep up the business even if don't see you much!!! have cristy right about  Fincram. The year was long. Fincram is in jail. where is the imbecile of yesterday.

Good luck,
Tom Abernethy

Donald,
This year is really over-
think the good!
Next year will be great since will be seniors! Have fun but be careful this summer. Be sure to use indoor restrooms! ~~!!!~~ Love always
Adonna
April 73

Donald,
I've really enjoyed being in Algebra with you this year.
You are a nice boy with a great sense of humor. Be good next year and don't worry so hard. Best of luck in the future.
Love,
Emma Heathbrun

Don
 with you behind me, in Spanish, I hope you have good luck in the future for it won't be here but you be good & take care,
 Mrs. Andrew Mitchell
 (Marian B. K.)

"Giles"
 Don,

Well if you are not good for nothing but getting me a job at old ashworth. We will have to go looking around this summer. Don't raise it much till
 this summer.

Andon
 Stud.

Stud, (Baby)
 You have made chemistry so "exciting." And seeing you uptown has really really turned me off on!
 (just a little jolt)

Look love, take real good care of yourself this summer and behave. Love
 Robin

Donald,
 I've enjoyed listening to your little remarks
 in Chemistry this year.
 It's been nice getting to know you this year too.
 Have fun this summer
 and behave. Love
 Mary

Donald,
 It's been nice knowing you this year. Have a good summer and don't raise it much n---! Be good!
 Love always
 Jeanne
 Rat

Donald, (stud)
 Well I've just known you this year.
 Remember all Chemistry class. Good luck. Have fun this summer. See you next year.
 Love
 Mary Dennis

Don, (stud)
 Well it has been great knowing you this year. Have fun Chemistry class. Good luck.
 Have fun this summer. See you next year.
 Love
 Ruston

Sailing through my mind, I find it so;
I tell thee, and I tell thee again Climb high upon the golden ladder and thine not that you are incapable of scaling the clouds...

Tom Jabotte 5/23/72

The Golden Ladder is near fall in behind the legends who have gone before, the red, the white horse, the one with chestnut eyes and skin,
the fair haired and the blue.
Continue your search until satisfied, be careful and tranquil, ignore the quality of the clouds until you and yours are truly capable of accepting their true worth.
Good tidings with warmth and companionship

Donald,
So we have gone through another tormented year,
not really, it has been fun, but different in many ways. I think it has been fun
in chemistry this year.
And I think you are nice. I still remember 9th grade school when you use to call me up + we use to talk. You are really cool.

A Friend Always,
